Located just south of the ByWard Market, Sandy Hill is bordered by the Rideau River, Rideau Canal and the Queensway and is one of Ottawa's most historic and diverse neighbourhoods. The majority of homes in this community were built between 1900 and 1950, with many of the larger homes of the early 1900's along the Rideau River having since been converted into international embassies.

Sandy Hill is brimming with recreational opportunities for its residents. There are baseball diamonds, basketball courts, sports fields, an outdoor rink and a tennis court for the sports enthusiasts. Play structures, outdoor wading pools, a sledding hill, and a splash pad all offer fun for families and the younger residents of the neighbourhood. The green thumb residents can take advantage of the two large community gardens.

Being only minutes from Parliament Hill, the Byward Market, OC Transpo stations, the 417 and the University of Ottawa makes Sandy Hill a very walkable and accessible neighbourhood and an extremely central and convenient place to live.
